

SALVETE AMICI!

My name is Lupa. "Lupa" is the Latin word for "wolf." The Romans believed that the first king of Rome was named Romulus, and that he was raised by a she-wolf on the banks of the Tiber River. This Lupa can be seen all over Rome today, and stands as a symbol for the Roman people. This year, I will be your classroom Lupa. I am excited to explore the ancient world with you and your family.

During my visit with you, please take three photographs of us next to three different buildings with classical architecture.

You will also need to write a Latin caption for each photo using prepositions with the ablative. You may want to use the following verbs to get started:

sto, stare, steti, statum - to stand sedeo, sedere, sedi, sessum - to sit

Before you pass me to the next student, you will share your three pictures and sentences with the class.

Let's hit the road-because all roads lead to Rome!

Love, Lupa
